

Ben Smith is Managing Partner of First Enercast Financial and has been involved with the energy markets for over ten years. A graduate from the University of Washington School of Economics, he has a professional background in energy market information, online information analysis, and media markets. His experience includes the development and growth of some of today's most respected energy industry online resources.

In addition to his professional work, he has been extensively published across both national and international sources. These include frequent appearances on CNBC, Fox Business News, CBS MarketWatch, Wall Street Journal, National Public Radio, Bloomberg, Dow Jones, Reuters and many more.